

Websites to help learn Geography at Home

There are lots of resources online that you can access on a phone, tablet or laptop to support your Geography learning at home. Here is a selection of websites that have different ways and ideas you can engage with the world we live in while you are stuck at home. Some might not interest you and others might fascinate you. We hope some of them inspire you to learn more.

<https://ed.ted.com/earth-school> - Earth school with Ted Ed – videos and challenges to help you understand and engage with the world around you. Now more than ever, we need to protect, nurture and care for Earth – so join TedEd Earth School to learn something amazing every weekday between Earth Day (April 22nd) and World Environment Day (June 5th). Within each lesson, you'll find fascinating resources compiled by Earth experts and ideas for getting involved in ways that count. Join us to learn more, create, act and share your journey (#EarthSchool) towards a cleaner and greener life.

<https://video.nationalgeographic.com/video/101-videos> - National geographic short video clips on a range of environmental, geographic and world issues. After watching a video why not write a short summary of what you have learnt and 5 questions about the issue you might still have? You could then try to research the answers.

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize> - bbc bitesize is uploading new resources each weekday – there are geography lessons you can join and the KS3 bitesize geography pages are good for S1 and S2

<https://world-geography-games.com/world.html> - a quiz website to help you improve your general knowledge of world Geography

<https://www.ordnancesurvey.co.uk/mapzone> - ordnance survey mapskills – fun games and information about maps and how we might use them in Geography lessons.
